

Tired World Computer Club

Membership Waiver

Tired World uses this waiver to suggest members accept offensive content as part of the experience. However, this waiver cannot override UK law.

Specifically:

- It doesn't protect the club or its members from liability for illegal harassment (e.g., unwanted conduct tied to a protected characteristic that creates a hostile environment).
- It doesn't shield against illegal discrimination (e.g., treating someone less favourably due to their race or disability).

1. Single-Sex Club

This club is a men-only space, as permitted under the Equality Act 2010, to support the well-being and mental health of its members. By joining, you acknowledge and accept this policy.

2. Offensive Content

Members may hear or share content, including offensive jokes, stories, or opinions, as part of the club's environment. By joining, you consent to this and waive any right to hold the club or other members liable for such content, except where it constitutes harassment or discrimination under the Equality Act 2010.

3. Confidentiality

All discussions, activities, and content shared within the club are strictly confidential. You agree not to share any information from club meetings or events online or with non-members during your membership and for a period of two years after your membership ends.

4. Liability

The club is not liable for any actions, speech, or behaviour of its members within the club premises or during club activities, except where such actions constitute negligence resulting in personal injury or death.

5. Mental Health Support

The club aims to provide a protected space to support men's mental health and well-being. However, it is not a substitute for professional medical advice or treatment.

6. Amendment of Terms

The club reserves the right to amend these terms at any time. Members will be notified of any changes.

7. Termination of Membership

The club reserves the right to terminate membership for any breach of these terms. By signing this, you acknowledge that you have read, understood, and agree to these terms.
